Wool Felt Garland, Sparrowkids

With the aim of encouraging interest in the environment, all Sparrowkids products are inspired by forms in nature. This method also results in timeless designs such as the Wool Felt Garlands, which are made from locally sourced sustainable and recycled fabrics. In addition, for every order a donation is made to the RSPB to protect Britain's sparrow population.

Wood stool, Pol's Potten

Handcrafted by the Laobe tribe, who live on the outskirts of Senegal, Pol's Potten's Wood stools are made of sustainably harvested cordyla pinnata wood, which can only be taken from trees that have died from drought or old age. The wood is sculpted using traditional tools, and either left untreated or polished with beeswax.
